Holistic Psychotherapist

The Center for Family Well-Being, a thriving holistic psychotherapy practice in Washington, DC, is looking for a skilled clinician with a passion for children and adolescents—and excited about a long-term clinical role as part of a dynamic, collaborative, and innovative team!

The Center serves the human family in its many forms with whole-person therapy (body, mind, and spirit), offering a range of heart-centered therapeutic paths tailored to each client's particular needs. We integrate Western psychotherapy and Eastern mindful awareness practice with mind-body methods—both ancient and modern—for the optimal well-being of kids, teens, adults, couples, and families.

We're accepting applications from candidates licensed or license-eligible in Washington, DC.

Position Overview: The clinician provides individual and group psychotherapy to all ages, including school-aged children and adolescents.

Qualifications:

- Master's degree (or higher) in counseling, social work, psychology, or related field.
- Alignment with the Center's mission, vision, and values, including demonstrated interest in mind/body integrative approaches and commitment to one's own mindful awareness practice (meditation, yoga, etc.)
- Active, unrestricted license (PhD, PsyD, LCSW, LMFT or LCPC) in the District of Columbia, or eligibility for same; additional licensure in MD or VA a plus. (Clinicians with graduate/provisional licensure are welcome to apply; supervision is provided).
- Special expertise with, and strong desire to work with, school-aged children, particularly 6-12 years old. Experience with or desire to work with adolescents, young adults, adults, and/or families a plus.
- Experience with expressive (play, sand, art), CBT, and mindfulness-based therapies; experience with DBT, somatic, and other modalities a plus.
- Availability for after-school and evening hours, Monday through Friday; weekend availability a plus.
- Experience in outpatient clinic or private practice setting a strong plus.
- Experience and/or interest in group therapy a plus.
- Passion for working in a collaborative environment.
- Organized, detail-oriented, and a team player able to work independently.
- Strong written and verbal communication skills.
- Strong interpersonal skills.

Core Responsibilities:

- Providing direct clinical care (in person or via telehealth) to children aged 6-14 (and to their parents/family systems) presenting with anxiety, depressed mood, emotional dysregulation, and/or difficulties with attention/executive functioning.
- Communicating with clients in a professional and supportive manner.
- Collaborating with a client's treatment team (i.e., appropriate family members, PCP, psychiatrist, school, etc.) as necessary.

- Completing written records for each client in a timely manner, including but not limited to intake notes, progress notes, treatment plans, assessments, and other forms or documents that may be needed or required.
- Maintaining accurate and timely records of services performed, working with the Director, Clinical Director, and Biller as appropriate to facilitate client billing.
- Attending staff meetings and any trainings directed by the Center.
- Engaging in ongoing professional development as required by licensing bodies.
- Openness to diversifying workload and/or increasing compensation by leading small group therapy programs, parent groups, or workshops.

This position requires physical presence at our Center in Washington DC's Chevy Chase neighborhood a few days per week, including some early evening hours. The Center is open for therapists to see clients Monday-Saturday.

We offer competitive compensation and paid sick time.

Position is W-2 with pay rate based on billed client hours; fulltime is 20-25 clinical hours/week, and parttime is 12-18 clinical hours/week.

Therapists are provided a bright and comfortable office space, a steady stream of referrals, and a warm, supportive collaborative environment with weekly team meetings with colleagues engaged in lifelong learning. We also offer bi-monthly peer supervision, monthly group trainings (clinical and holistic), clinical supervision, in-house billing, an intake client care coordinator, and paid continuing education credits.

Our ideal candidate will be excited to join a collaborative team of colleagues, receptive to feedback, and passionate about integrative mind/body approaches to mental health.

We value diversity in all forms, and we encourage applicants who are bi-lingual and/or BIPOC, LGBTQ, or male-identified to apply. The position reports to the Center's founder and director, Kate Kelly, MA, MSW, LICSW.

Interested applicants are asked to send a cover letter and CV to Kate Kelly at Kate@centerforfamilywellbeing.com
